Two true stories of when God speaks.

The Principal of the eminent theological college in Sydney felt compelled to visit the little church. Even though it was his holidays, something beckoned him into the gravel car-park and up the uneven footpath. God had a lesson for him today. It was an old-fashioned little church and it could have used a coat of paint. Reverend Jack sat in the pew closest to the front. (It always annoyed him when his own congregation filled in the back few pews, inadvertently leaving a “me and them” gap between the pulpit and the congregation, and so Jack always sat in the front row when he visited churches). Jack hoped that the local minister did not recognise him. It was always awkward when the minister at the front of a church, recognised the “Theological College’s Director of Preaching,” for that was Jack’s official title, (as well as Principal) and his main area of expertise. It was just as well on this occasion because this sermon was a grand scale howler. It broke all the rules – way too many illustrations and not enough content; structurally poor; ill-researched; Biblically marginal – picking up on tangential points but missing the main thrust of the text; too long; monotonic. Jack picked at his fingernails and checked his watch. The surf and sun beckoned outside and inside he was being force fed catatonic drivel. Mercifully the sermon was finally over and so began a battle in Jack’s mind. On the one hand he felt compelled to rebuke the preacher for his casual mistreatment of God’s word; on the other hand the thought formed that he was on holidays and should leave well enough alone. As he pondered, he ushered a frail old lady into the aisle ahead of him. As she reached the minister, who stood there, smiling, clearly oblivious to the horrendous butchery of the Word that had issued forth from that same smile for the past 30 minutes, she paused and started to cry. She grabbed the minister’s hand and would not let go. His smile disappeared as he softened and shared her sadness. “That was the best sermon I have ever heard’, she said as she sobbed, “It meant more to me than you could imagine. Thank you. Thank you.” Carried away by that moment, Jack also found himself thanking the minister for the sermon and shaking his hand. “Wow – that’s high praise coming from you,” said the minister – God had spoken through the minister’s words, straight into a grieving heart. God had spoken to Jack too.

It was cold and it was raining and the late night meeting in Sydney had only furnished the Church Elder with a luke-warm cuppa and a few dry bickies. He was cold, tired and hungry. Suddenly a vision of a friendly face appeared through the mist beyond the next set of traffic lights. It was a kindly face – with a grandfatherly smile, a warm welcoming grin and the promise of famine requited. Colonel Sanders. He ordered a meal and then sat to eat by the outside window. As he watched the rain beat against the glass, he was distracted by the sight of a vagrant outside in the rain who walked up to the bins and began to rummage through looking for scraps of food. The Church Elder felt grossed out – to the point of almost heaving and throwing his double cheese chicken zinger tower burger and upsized combo into the bin – but not quite. He caught the eye of the electrician in the fluoro vest who sat at the same window next to him and shared his disgust as he flicked his eyes back outside indicating the vagrant who had found the remnants of a spicy wings box and was busily finishing the last ten per cent of chicken on each of the bones. He looked back at the Electrician, just in time to see him leave the building (not surprisingly, he thought), but only to watch him turn towards the vagrant and give him his cup of coffee, zinger burger and fries. He then watched as the Electrician re-entered the store and purchased another meal which he carried back to the ute and drove off. God had spoken to the Electrician. God had spoken to the Church Elder too.

God speaks to us every day. Sometimes we even listen.

MESSAGES FROM THE COLLEGE OFFICE

Afternoon messages to Students

We are currently experiencing difficulties in the afternoon with a last minute influx of phone calls just on bell time with requests to get messages to students about where to meet parents, or that parents are running late etc.

As we are reluctant to use the PA system to interrupt classes, our Office staff need to physically run messages to classrooms, or particular classes have to be found, all at the last minute. We are a scattered campus and there are now over 750 students here.

Parents can you please assist us by having a back-up plan for your children.

It is not always possible to get the message to students in time. Or, if you must get a message through, please phone the College Office prior to 1.30 pm.

Award Recipients for Upcoming Events

Please note that the parents of students receiving an Award at the Junior, Middle and Senior Formal Assemblies have been notified by email.

Junior, Middle and Senior Presentation Nights are compulsory attendance events at the College.

Those receiving Awards at the Junior, Middle and Senior Presentation Evenings will be notified by letter through the mail.

Health Notice

Please be advised that we have been notified of a confirmed case of Whooping Cough at the College.

Commonwealth Bank of Australia (Dollarmites) College Banking

Please note that next Wednesday, 3 December will be the last day for College Banking for 2014. Thank you to all our wonderful bankers!
Awards
Parents please be aware that to meet the deadlines for Reports, Assemblies and Presentation Nights, the cut-off date was Monday, 17 November. This means that students may still receive a Merit card for Academic Effort and Achievement after this date, however they may not appear on your child’s Semester 2 College Report and they will not count in the tally to higher awards.
We thank you for your understanding in this matter.

Last Day of Term
The arrangements for the completion of the term are outlined below.
- Year 10 and 11 will finish the year on Wednesday, 10 December.
- Transition to Year 9 will finish on Thursday, 11 December

50 Most Common Parenting Questions (Here are a few more)

How do I encourage my children to value their possessions?
Taking care of your possessions such as clothes, toys and personal items is an important part of growing up and an extension of caring for yourself. Most children in first world countries such as Australia have a surplus of such items so there is less of a tendency to place great value on these things than in the past. That means as a parent you may need to work a little harder than parents of past generations to encourage kids to care for their things.
Here are some strategies to help:
1. Encourage children to pack away and tidy up one lot of items or toys before getting out the next.
2. Before they receive new toys or items encourage them to cull the old ones.
3. Avoid replacing items and clothes they don't care for.
4. If they are careless with other people's items or toys then remove the right to use them (explaining why to young children) and let them contribute in some age-appropriate way to restitution.
5. Provide pocket money from a young age, and encourage them to buy some items they want from their pocket-money. This will teach them about scarcity and help them place some value on personal items.
6. Have less not more items to encourage them to value what they have.

My child is often anxious and fearful. How can I help?
Many children have fears that surface at various times in their lives. Some are developmental, some triggered by an event and some learned from others. Try these ideas to help your child cope with fears:
1. Help your child distinguish between caution and fear.
2. Affirm their fears but don’t let them stop him or her from being brave.
3. Reassure them with the truth that you can’t guarantee their safety, but there are steps to take to reduce the likelihood of harm.
4. Kids take solace in action so teach them some skills to cope.
5. Confidence is catching so show your confidence in your child's ability to deal with their fears.

How do I help my child make and keep friends?
Developing and maintaining friendships is a dynamic process. It comes naturally to some children, but others can be coached to be more social.
- Teach social skills such as how to start up a conversation, how to be a good winner and loser, and how to hold the interest of others during a conversation.
- Provide opportunities for your child to have friends at your place after school or on weekends so that friendships can develop.
- Encourage your child to participate in out-of-school activities or groups that may provide opportunities to meet new people away from the peer groups at school. Friendships formed through shared interests are often very strong.
- Limit the time spent in solitary activities if your child appears to have few friends. Be humane and kind but don’t be afraid to insist children mix with others of their own age.
- Expose your child to a variety of different children to help them find like-minded souls.

I really enjoyed learning about the past and how people lived. Old Government House was huge. The best part was being involved in a school lesson and how cross the teacher was to all of us. Experiment Farm was the first farm in the new colony. Many streets in Parramatta are named after the governor’s and we saw this as we drove around Parramatta in the bus.

Jack Fiatarone Year 3

We got to plant corn at Experiment Farm and we went down to the cellar where it was very cool. We were lucky as we got to wear different costumes and pretended to be different characters. We had a tour from front to back and we got to see where they lived and slept.

On Friday, 21 November the Years 3 - 6 Public Speaking Finals were held in the Warne Auditorium. This was a very entertaining afternoon with fantastic speeches from the 12 finalists. Thank you to Mrs Croger and Mrs Vidler for adjudicating the speeches and thanks to Ms Huxtable who entertained the audience.

The Stage 3 band entertained the audience with two items and I would like to thank the band for playing and thank you to Mr Coutts-Smith for preparing the band and for his conducting on the day.

As with all competitions we had winners. This year it was very close and the three adjudicators were very impressed with the speeches and how the students presented. I would like to thank all the finalists this year, as it was a great achievement to make it to the finals. Students had to be in the top six of their stage to make it.

The speakers for the afternoon were:

- Evelyn Ricketts, Annabelle Gibson, Amy Hvejsel, Joshua Phillips, Kirstin Starr, Kaitlyn Ollis, Jack Carroll, Flynn Noakes, Maisie Hart, Leigh Birman and Georgina Gibson

After a decision made by the judges the winners were announced.

- 3rd place Maisie Hart, 2nd place Jack Carroll and 1st place Flynn Noakes.

We had a great day last Saturday at our Term 4 Working Bee with lots of parents and students turning up to get lots done. The jobs achieved were:

- The Rose gardens north east of Admin as well as the Canteen gardens were weeded and tidied up.
- A new Banksia tree which was donated by Steve from Tahmoor Garden Centre was planted (under close supervision of Mrs Rollason) in the corner of the FLOWERS Canteen garden.
- Gardens around Flynn were weeded and mulch added.
- The gardens opposite the bus bay were mulched. This would not have been possible to complete but for Mr Rollason and his Kabota front end loader. Thanks Rob.
- Rubbish was picked up around the College field as well as other areas by the students with the aid of their parents.
- Books were covered in Flynn 2 across the bridge by a dedicated team.
- Staff came in and caught up with jobs in their own areas as well as in the gardens around the College.

A big thanks also to the Wollondilly Anglican Community Church who provided a scrumptious morning tea and the P&F hospitality team who provided the BBQ lunch.

Sticks and stones may break my bones but words can never hurt me - is a lie.

Words are rarely hollow, they contain the power of:

- life and death,
- construction or destruction and
- comfort or distress.

Much is the torment of those who live in the voiced opinions of others, enslaved by their work results or consumed by such assessments that regularly float upon the wind.

Choose this day the soulful liberation of Jesus' advice:

My Child, live only for what is spoken about you in heaven.
Care nothing about any reputation you hold on Earth, no matter how noble, nor how slanderous.
Care only about the reputation you hold with Myself and My father.

Or as Bill Hybels teaches:

Live for an audience of one.

Amidst the soul-tearing adversity and travails, the betrayals and the lies choose no defence, BUT rejoice - for YOUR name is written in the Book of Life; the register of all God's people.

Indeed, of Zion it will be said, ‘This one and that one were born in her, and the Most High himself will establish her.’ The Lord will write in the register of the peoples: ‘This one was born in Zion.’ (Psalm 87:5-6)

Inscribe this - yes, tattoo it upon your heart:

the time approaches when all the former things shall pass away, including the hurtful opinions of frail, foolish and ill-informed others.

Mic. 5:2 ¶ "But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, though you are small among the clans of Judah,
out of you will come for me
one who will be ruler over Israel, whose origins are from of old,
from ancient times."

Even being born in Bethlehem was not a random event for Jesus. Because of the census called by Caesar Augustus, Joseph and Mary had to be in the home town of their ancestor, David. So, instead of being born in Nazareth, Jesus was born exactly where it was promised. God doesn't believe in coincidences. He set up the birth of Jesus to suit all the prophecies and to make our hope a reality.

Prayer Points

Thank God

- That He speaks to us through the words and actions of others.
- For the great achievements of our students in so many different field of endeavour.
- That, like any parent, He sees us for what we are – and loves us anyway

Ask God

- To continue to correct us, rebuke us, encourage us and refine us.
- That the meaning of Christmas will not be lost behind the veil of tinsel and trinkets.
- For a continued sense of community during the end of year celebrations.

Psalm 127:1 Unless the Lord builds the house, its builders labour in vain.
Excellence, Endurance, Eternity.
